

Adobe Certified Associate (ACA) Adobe Level 123 Series

In an increasingly competitive work world, employers need more than familiar users of digital communications technology to drive successful business outcomes—they need proficient users. With certification, hiring managers will know that work similar to the excellent portfolio they just reviewed can be accomplished efficiently. Whether it's a career in graphic design, Web marketing, video production, or more, becoming an Adobe Certified Associate will help give you the inside track to work in these exciting new fields.

However, if you prefer a step-by-step approach to learning, covering the basics all the way to advanced application of Adobe software, the Adobe Level 123 Series is a cost effective program for you. This Non-Certification series is developed in tiers for the beginners (Level 1), to the intermediate (Level 2) and advanced users (Level 3), this level-by-level program allows individuals to pick up office applications training suited to their level of competency.
